IDAHO SENATOR SAYS
LABOR DESTRUCTION
PLANNED BY CAPITAL
EVER SINCE THE WAR

Borah Says Campaign Underlying Causes of Two Big Dual Strikes
IS DEEPLY CONCERNED
ON PEOPLE'S HARDSHIPS
Will Ask For Thorough Probe Of Situation In Coal Industry

(By International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, July 26.—Destruction of union labor, deliberately planned by capital upon the termination of the World War, was declared by Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the Senate labor committee, today to be the fundamental, underlying cause of the existing coal and railroad situation.

Borah said he was "deeply concerned about the incalculable hardships which the continued deadlock between the coal operators and miners and the railroad executives and shippers was bound to impose upon the great masses of the people who were not directly involved by the war of capital against union labor." Borah said he believed nationalization or government control of the coal industry was inevitable and this belief led him to introduce his bill for creation of a commission to delve deep into the coal situation as it has existed for the past ten years.
He hoped to have his committee act promptly on the bill and report it favorably to the Senate so it might be passed at this session of Congress.
Aside from inviting Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of the Interior Fall to appear before the committee, he did not contemplate extended hearings on the bill.

AIRPLANE USED TO PROBE STRIKE ROW

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 26.— Reports of impending trouble in the Birmingham district as a result of the activities of striking shopmen caused Col. Hartley A. Moon, head of the state military department, to leave for Birmingham by airplane late Tuesday afternoon.
Col. Moon went at the command of Governor Kilby, who desired first hand information regarding conditions which had been reported to him earlier in the afternoon by George W. Jones, district attorney of the Louisville and Nashville railroad.
Telephonic information also was received by the governor from other sources, which caused him to desire a report from the head of the military department. In the past an investigation has presaged the calling out of the national guard for strike duty.
Governor Kilby was advised that trouble was feared during the next few hours and that threats had been made that the strikers intended to make a raid on the railroad shops, where employees who took the positions of the strikers have been quartered since the strike began July 1.

Sheriff May In Montgomery To See Executive

Sheriff J. V. May was called to Montgomery today on call of Governor Kilby, and left early today to report at the executive office. It is not known the nature of the business to be discussed at this meeting, presumably it has to do with the local situation here.

GIRL'S HEARING TO BE BEHIND CLOSED DOORS AT CAPITAL

Albany-Decatur Daily
(Montgomery Bureau.)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 26.— Announcement of J. Lee Holloway, judge of the Montgomery county juvenile court, today that the examination of Mildred Willis Brewer, self-confessed slayer of Portis Mc-Keithen, her cousin's husband, will be conducted behind closed doors at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon created great surprise in Montgomery today.

Judge Holloway acted under the discretionary authority conferred upon him by the juvenile court law in handling general cases where children are accused of being dependent, neglected or delinquent and where the certainty of the children's ages has been established. The surprise was caused because the law, according to the most general interpretation, never intended that any examination of a case alleging murder should be behind closed doors.

The supreme court not many months ago reversed a case from Jefferson county because the trial judge excluded a portion of the public from the court room. The court of appeals followed the supreme court by holding that another person was not tried in accordance with the constitution because the rights of the public were taken away.

The contention in Montgomery is that the authority of the judge to exclude the public from any hearing regarding the dependency or delinquency of children was never intended to cover a case where a person whose age is in dispute was accused of the greatest crime recognized by law.

Judge Holloway is seeking to exercise an authority conferred by section 11 of the special juvenile court act for Montgomery county which was enacted in 1920. This section says: "Said court shall have power upon the hearing of any such case involving any child to exclude the general public from the room when said hearing is held, but it shall admit thereto all such persons as may have a direct interest in the case."

Those who were instrumental in the enactment of the juvenile court act contend that it never was intended that this court should be used as a shield behind which any person of disputed age might hide and thus prevent the public from obtaining information regarding evidence which was held by law officers of the state to warrant a charge of murder in the first degree or any other felony recognized by the law of Alabama.

ROAD'S EXECUTIVES

portant Program To Keep In Touch

PERSONAL CONFERENCE TO BE HELD EACH DAY

Atterbury Called This Morning And Cuyler Is Dated For Thursday

(By International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, July 26.—While President Harding still considers that settlement of the railroad strike is up to the labor board, he nevertheless took care today to what was regarded as an important step in the direction of restored peace.

The President inaugurated a series of personal conferences with those railway executives who have most violently opposed any concessions to the striking workers in the way of seniority rights.

The first of the executives to come to the White House was W. W. Atterbury, vice-president of the Pennsylvania and known to be the most rigid in opposition to the demands of the striking shopmen.

President Harding sent for General Atterbury and for more than an hour they discussed the issues of the strike.
Tomorrow President Harding has asked DeWitt Cuyler, president of the American Association of Railway Executives, to come for a similar conference.

FOUR ARE HELD ON CONTEMPT CHARGE

Initial arrests on charges of contempt of court in connection with the federal court injunction against picketing here in the railroad strike, were made this afternoon when four men were taken into custody by United States Deputy Marshals Bass, Davison and Bowling.

Bonds were set at $1,000 in each case. Two made bond a short time after the arrest. Efforts were being made to arrange bond for the other two.

are large and of fine quality. Please

FAVORS ARRESTED

convict of Butler county, who escaped from Kilby prison May 3, is under fer agent has gone for him. Favors one year and one day to two years.

Fortune Asked By French Miss For 'Breach Promise'

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 26.—James De Rothschild was sued for half a million dollars damages in the state court today by Marie Porquet, French girl, who alleges she

SEES NO DANGER IN TROOP MOBILIZATION

Sheriff Hartsfield Denies That He Requested Governor
To Aid

(By International News Service.) BIRMINGHAM, July 26.—The strike situation here remains unchanged today.

"Everything is quiet," said Colonel Walter E. Bare, commanding the detachment of Alabama national guard ordered mobilized by Governor Kilby.
"None of the companies have been ordered from their armories. In some instances groups of strikers were found assembled at certain points, but the number was much less than was heretofore been reported."

"We see no cause for alarm in Governor Kilby's order mobilizing certain units of the guard," said C. A.
Cardwell, business agent of the local machinists, "because our men are law abiding citizens. They have rigorously kept the law and intend to continue pursuing that course."

Sheriff J. C. Hartsfield, when interviewed today, denied that he had asked for troops.

"I did not request that troops be ordered out," said Sheriff Hartsfield. "Governor Kilby called me over long distance telephone yesterday, stating that he had heard rumors that strikers would attempt to burn the Louisville and Nashville shops last night. Later in the day the same report reached me from three other sources. I called the Governor and laid the situation before him. He acted upon his own initiative in ordering troops mobilized."

ALARMING REPORTS OF WEEVIL ACTIVITY

The last two days have brought alarming reports of the ravages of the boll weevil in the territory near here. It is said by those who have made the investigation that there is an infestation of between 15 and 40 per cent in the territory visited. This infestation is the visitation of the weevils known as the second infestation. It has caused some concern for the safety of the cotton crop in the vicinity where they are most prevalent.

The points where the greatest activity now seems to be centered is around Flint station and the territory contiguous thereto. Practical demonstration of what can be accomplished when the dusting process is industriously pursued, is gained by the fact that upon fields where this plan has been adhered to, is practically free from the pests and a crop is assured. Those who speak with authority in the matter are strong in the opinion that the fight against the pest must not be let up, but on the contrary the campaign for boll weevil eradication must go energetically on until the bolls begin to open. They point out also that the frequent stirring of the land where the cotton is growing is of great value, especially during the hot weather now obtaining when little moisture is evident. The plant is making fine growth in every section, and is fruiting fast.

Old Copy of City Director of 1905 Freshens Memories of Yesteryear

A reporter of the Albany-Decatur Daily chanced upon an old copy of a city directory of New Decatur and Decatur, issued in 1905, and compiled by A. C. Frey. The directory is 27 years old, considerably past its majority according to the statute governing such cases, and is therefore entitled to some consideration. The edition bears the imprint of "C. J.
Hildreth," "Advertiser" office.
On one of the introductory pages of the directory appears the city officers at that period of Decatur and New Decatur.

New Decatur officers: Samuel Blackwell, mayor; Guy F. Ponder, clerk; A. J. Lacy, Marshall; H. A.
Seelye, treasurer; L. P. Troup, attorney; R. P. Stovall and W. V. Davidson, police. The aldermen were as follows: First Ward, Thos. Kearns and John Patterson; second ward, John Hartung and T. G. Hughes, third ward, E. W. McCleskey and J. P. Masterson; fourth ward, B. L. Malone and E. C. Payne. Decatur city officers as follows: Henry A. Stoggs, mayor; J. H. Edwards, clerk; W. W.
Callahan, attorney; C. D. M. Young, marshal; Aldermen, P. J. Edwards, J. T. Jones, E. S. Hines, T. J. Morrow and J. D. Scruggs.

In the back of the edition appears the front page of a copy of the New Decatur Advertiser in miniature, as of date, Saturday, September 2, 1895.
It was necessary to procure a magnifying glass capable of magnifying seven times in order to read the contents of this miniature page. There vividly to view.

Samuel Gompers Blames "Wall Street Group" For Blocking Peace

DETROIT, July 26.—Threat that 400,000 maintenance of way men employed on the railroads will go out on strike because of the alleged action of certain roads in attempting to form company organizations to take the places of the international brotherhoods and guards employed by the roads, was made here today at headquarters of the maintenance of way brotherhood.

(By International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, July 26.—The nation went back to wartime regulation of the railroads today, while peace in the industrial chaos, brought on by the rail and coal strikes, appeared almost as distant as ever.

For all practical purposes the railroads of the country, with their 250,- 000 miles of track, were merged into one gigantic system today with interchangeable equipment and operating under orders to move food and fuel above all else.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, with its broad power derived from the transportation act, became, over night, a miniature railroad administration, empowered to suspend all rules and regulations and to enforce its fuel and food carrying orders under heavy penalties.

The national emergency declared by the commission and the priority ratings, accorded shipments of food and fuel on all railroads, will, government officials believe, reduce public suffering and inconvenience to the minimum, while at the same time afford a breathing spell to figure out new methods of settling the strike.

That the action, through the Interstate Commerce Commission, is only a poultice applied to the aggravate situation, and not a cure, was generally recognized by the administration officials. The cure can only come through a resumption of mining on a large scale in mines now le-idle for four months, and through expert labor being attracted into the repair shops of the railroads to work on rapidly deteriorating equipment.

There were few indications today that the government contemplated any immediate steps in the direction of restoring peace in either the rail or coal strike.

For the time being it appeared that administration is going to devote its major efforts to insure the movement of life's necessities, food and fuel, to prevent profiteering and to spreading out the available coal supplies over as thin a surface as possible.

While the government marked time in the coal strike, officials were hop-ful that John L. Lewis' renewed invitation to the operators to discuss national agreement might lead to something.

It is known that many of the operators frankly favor a national agreement, but that the "die" has element among them control enough to have blocked, so far, the chances of a joint conference.

Whether there has been any change of sentiment on the part of the "die hards" probably will be discovered next week.

In the rail strike, President Harding still considers that the burden responsibility rests with the rail-

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.*DANGER SIGNALS TO AUTOISTS

A good many suggestions are going the rounds as to how best to warn autoists against accidents. One worthy of note is that the morning and evening papers carry information daily as to the number and cause of all reported accidents in a place reserved each day for that purpose. Also it is suggested that a skull and cross bones adorn the head of each column where the story of the accident is told. Such warning might prevent some accidents and save some lives. But none would see or heed such a warnings unless they were in the right frame of mind—for none are so blind as those who will not see. The best place to set up a danger signal is deep down in the consciousness of every individual. And all should learn to believe that it is foolish and wrong to be careless on the public highways.

The assembly of all the information available as to accidents, put in a convenient place, if read by the public would be calculated to do much good—quite as much or more good than the long stories on crime and intrigue. A good head for a column on auto accidents would be: "Stop, Look and Listen."

A VOICE RAISED AGAINST CHILDREN'S CRUSADE.

Agnes Repplier, the foremost woman essayist in America, contributes an editorial to the Philadelphia Public Ledger, in which she points out the absurdity of the numerous "children's crusades." "Say It With Children" has become a national slogan, so utterly foolish and so characteristic of these disjointed times that it cannot be discarded too soon, for the sake of common sense and the national welfare, not to speak of the desolated children themselves who are being used as tools for older persons.

Miss Repplier says:

It is illustrative of American sentiment that whenever an important question comes up for decision, a question requiring the exercise of mature and experienced judgment, a posse of children is dispatched to Washington or to a neighboring state to help settle the dispute. When Europe was in the throes of the World War and the United States, racked with concern, was straining every nerve to maintain her rights as a free nation and to preserve the safety of her citizens, a delegation of children was sent to Mr. Wilson to ask him not to go to war. It was as though they asked him not to play golf on Sunday or not to put Christmas candles in the White House windows. The complicated and terrible problems involving our commerce and our security were simplified to a question of choice, and the President was expected to say, "What-over your dear mamma's think best."

In her editorial Miss Repplier calls attention to the "children's crusade" of last spring, organized by the American Civil Liberties union, which was designed to win the freedom of prisoners held for violating war laws by appealing to President Harding. Fortunately, the President showed more than his customary firmness and the children were not received at the White House. One Mrs. Kate O'Hara, a prime mover in the crusade, had such a bad record with the department of justice that when she faced the Attorney General, with all due respect to her sex, she didn't have a leg to stand on. More recently a delegation of schoolboys journeyed from Chicago to Philadelphia to ask that the Liberty Bell be carried off on another jaunt. They brought a petition signed by 3,500,000 school children of the middle west.

With her characteristic pungency, Miss Repplier says, in referring to the adults of Philadelphia and the nation who want the Liberty Bell to remain where it is: "They cannot allow the nine-mile petition to influence their judgment, being well aware that if 3,000,000 little boys and girls were bidden to sign a paper asking that the Liberty Bell should be painted red, white and blue or swathed in flannel wrappings in the winter, they cheerfully would obey. Children are the hope of the country, but the business of running it is still the painful duty of the adult."

The first "children's crusade," of which there is any record, took place in 1212. It set out for the Holy Land. Thousands of boys were shipwrecked and enslaved who should have been kept at home. The idea has persisted ever since. Crusading is being overdone by adults. They should not drag in children who don't know what it's all about and care less.—Age-Herald.

Alabama. What magic in the name. From your mighty rivers there comes forth the mystic power which turns countless spindles, where intricate machinery turns your product into threads which enter into the fabric of which a world is clothed. From your power dams located on your navigable streams there is harnessed the unseen power which goes with lightning like rapidly into the homes and factories, and its silent force does the bidding of man by the simple impress of a button.

From your hills and valleys there comes forth expressed in various products of the soil the necessary things which sustain a nation, and a product which causes the jingle of money to again resound in the strong boxes. In your virgin forests there yet remains enough of various kinds of timber to furnish the timber for the maritime fleets of the nations of earth, and iron and steel still abound in such quantities to furnish the need of the world. In the bowels of your earth there is coal enough to last for an indefinite time without worrying where it is to come from. In a citizenship housed within the confines of your limits, there remains yet hope and courage enough to meet the intricate problems of which there are many, and solve them with justice and equity, and satisfaction to all. From your public school system, guarded by those who have its interests at heart, and on every hilltop and every valley in your commonwealth where these temples of learning abide, each one a temple of liberty, there is the means of inculcating in the minds and hearts of the young, which will make of them able and willing to take up and carry forward, where those who now labor leave off. From your christian shrines whose spires point upward and to God, there is furnished inspiration for the duties of the present and hope for the future. Great are you Alabama. May you continue to accomplish, and may your influence radiate and grow, and thereby furnish a great storehouse in which the great heritages of the past can be safely housed and guarded and transmitted to future posterity.

Many of us have small areas in the which our perspective of life is circumscribed. Our vision is narrowed to this small enclosure, and we do not see out. Do not see the great opportunities which just out the enclosure are beckoning for recognition. In this respect it might be likened to seeing through a glass darkly. We cannot get enough of the vision from where we stand to be impressed with its greatness or its opportunities. Herein lies a great deal of our small ideas. Broad ideas must have a scope of great vision. Vision that extends out and on, above the mists toward the horizon. The ability to see out requires much reasoning which must be approached from many angles. It is in this way that those who succeed have the appellation attached to their names, "they were luck". Luck and chance do not exist. The things which by obtaining bring success, but the elements in the make up of the one who is successful have well defined plans of procedure. It is this which in a very large manner brings success or failure. The main thing about successful men, is their ability to stick to the thing until it is done, and all the while it is being done, there is a well marked-out system which is rigidly adhered to. System and the ability then to stay with it, are two very important phases of the work. Not every one can stick or does stick, although they may know this much is required if the thing is done. Not willing to pay the price.

The great awakening which seems to be obtaining the world over, is the forerunner of a new order of things. The mind of the public conscience is being awakened as never before, and out of it is to come many wholesome influences, which will make of the world a better place. Humanity is ever struggling in an effort to adjust itself. It will finally succeed. One of the great reformations which will be the outcome of the avalanche of ballots which are from time to time being deposited in different sections of the nation, will be the announcement to those who serve in public office, that the government must be carried back and begun over again to the charted places and carried forward along the plans as outlined where it began, of the people, for the people and by the people. That a great digression has been made from this annunciated plan of government, is not susceptible of any argument. The edict as spoken by the ballot in many states during the past few months, has been spoken in tones which cannot be misunderstood, neither misjudged. Those who propose to hold public places of trust and honor may as well wake up to the situation. The people are yet the government, and will hold to strict accountability those who believe otherwise. That public office is a public trust, not to be played around to meet one's convenience, neither a place in which one can bring into play individual ideas to perpetuate in place and power; these are some of the things which must be taken stock of, and actions squared accordingly.

With all the innumerable helps which can be had for the mere going after them, there is no excuse in the world for any young man in this day to not have the benefit of at least a good English education. The public schools are near free as they in fact ought to be. The high schools of the state located in practically every county of the state are afforded where the youth after completing to public school curriculum can go and get the advantage of the higher education practically free. The best of instructors are there to train the mind and hands at the same time. There is absolutely no excuse, save the fact that some will not take it and avail themselves of the very necessary helps which the state has wisely placed at their disposal.

The state has wisely made laws that will protect the child, and it is made compulsory that parents send their children to school a certain length of time each year. With this safeguard thrown around them while they cannot speak for themselves, is again a wise provision. The next 10 years should reveal some of the wise provisions, which have been made from time to time in behalf of the child, in a most telling manner.

James Reed, Missouri Senator, is excusing his action in the Senate by saying that he did what he thought his constituents wished that's a slam at the people of the show-me state.

Archaeologists do not agree as to just how many years it took to build the Egyptian pyramids, but every one agrees that it took a good while. If we did not know the men, and what a nasty opposition they are meeting, it would look like the Ford promoters for Muscle Shoals were lineal descendants of the promoters and builders of the pyramids.

Aged Woman Finds Capital Generous

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-DeCATUR Daily)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 26.—

An old woman walked into the capitol yesterday afternoon. To each person she met she handed a card. On the card were the words: "I am a poor woman. I am deaf and dumb. Will you help me?" Capitol officials and employees are generous and she soon had a neat purse.

Judge John B. Fuller, superintendent of the capitol, walked up and shouted: "Don't you know the rules of the capitol prohibit beggars from coming inside?"

The old woman forgot. "I've got just as much right here as you have," she answered.

"Now whadda you think of that?" said Judge Fuller.

EDWARD O'NEAL ON WAY TO CONVENTION

Edward A. O'Neal, of Florence, president of the Lauderdale County Farm Bureau and an official of the state organization, passed through Decatur late yesterday on his way to Montgomery where he stated the annual meeting of the Alabama Farm Bureau opens a two days session the last of this week.

Mr. O'Neal said that he was just back from Chicago, where he was called some time ago by officials of the National Farm Bureau and of the Farmer's Grange to attend their annual meeting which was held there.

"I found I was expected to tell the convention, representing 2,000,000 farmers, what I knew about the prospects at Muscle Shoals, and especially as to sentiment for their lease by Henry Ford."

"I had the pleasure of seeing these great organizations pass resolutions reaffirming their original choice of Ford to have the Shoals over all comers. I understand that this extra endorsement of Mr. Ford was the answer of the farmers of the nation to the tirade of Senator Norris against Ford's plans and purposes for the development of Muscle Shoals."

"Henry Ford told us in reply to a telegram sent him by our organizations from Chicago, that he planned to spend $28,000,000 at the Shoals of his own money, over and above what the government will be asked to spend on the project."

"And he told us boys that he would sell the farmers 25 pounds of fertilizer for what five pounds now costs them."

Mr. O'Neal said that the reason Ford told the farmers this was to get the information to people who would appreciate it, and that he was depending on the farmers to help fight his offer through congress. O'Neal declared it would do no good to tell it to the interests, as they would only fight Ford that much the harder.

"If Ford gets the Shoals," said Mr. O'Neal, it will be such a boon to the farmers as they have never even dreamed of."

labor board, the creature set up by Congress to deal with such a situation, it was reiterated at the White House today.

While the nation went on wartime rationing today, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, charged anew that a small group of Wall Street railway executives are responsible for the continuation of the rail strike.

"Most railway executives," said Gompers, "are anxious to settle the rail strike by negotiations with the workers. Western and midwestern roads, however, are virtually helpless before a small group of Eastern executives who are Wall Street trustees."

"The roads are getting in serious condition. Rolling stock is rapidly becoming useless. Trains are running behind schedules. Annulled trains are not being put back. The strike is effective and will be effective until the railroads deal with their workers."

PEACE REMOTE

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, July 26.—Peace in the railway strike seemed a remote possibility today with the government assuming control of freight and passenger transportation on the eastern railroads, while the latter continued their efforts to form new unions of shopmen and indications from Montreal were that a walkout of 40,000 shopmen in Canada has been authorized.

The Pennsylvania railroad announced that its passenger and freight service has been restored to normal on that road.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Importation of British mined coal to avert a fuel famine among American industries is so apparently futile and absurd as to constitute a huge joke," John L. A Prominent New York artist carried away with him these vivid pen-impressions of the big-moments of "Stardust," the motion picture suggested by Fannie Hurst's first full-length novel of the same name.

Here are pictured Miss Hope Hampton before and after she as "Lily Becker" wins grand-operatic success; Noel Tearle as her unsympathetic husband and James Rennie as her suitor. The train wreck is the means of unravelling the tangle of the girl's love.

Indiana Lady Had Something Like Indigestion Until She Took Black-Draught, Then Got All Right.

Seymour, Ind.—"Some time ago I had a sick spell, something like indigestion," writes Mrs. Clara Peacock, of Route 6, this place. "I would get very sick at the stomach, and spit or vomit, especially in the mornings."

"Then I began the use of Theodor's Black-Draught, after I had tried other medicines. The Black-Draught relieved me more than anything that I took, and I got all right."

"I haven't found anything better than Black-Draught when suffering from trouble caused by constipation. It is easy and sure. Can be taken in small doses or large as the case calls for."

"When you have sick stomach, indigestion, headache, constipation, or other disagreeable symptoms, take Black-Draught to help keep your system free from poison."

Theodor's Black-Draught is made from purely vegetable ingredients, acts in a gentle, natural way, and has no bad after-effects. It may be safely taken by young or old.

for Mr. Dupont and the wish for his speedy recovery as expressed by Mr. Lewis in the course of his report.

P. J. Moneyham's address was the first he has delivered here for several months, and he was listened to with rapt attention. He verified a previous report that Evansville rail strikers had had 100,000 copies reprinted of the pro-strike dodger entitled "Citizens, Take Notice."

He said that moral and voluntary financial support was being offered in Evansville to the shopmen strikers by members of the Transportation Brotherhoods, but the speaker said that up to the present no such aid had been needed.

He said that at the Howell shops at Evansville of the 1,400 employees all were now out but three. He said the shopmen met every morning while 11,000 striking miners of the same city met every afternoon. In their speeches Messrs. Ehnert and Gillespie, stated that the strike situation at Knoxville was 100 percent for the strikers, and declared that de-

NEW PICTURES OF PRINCIPALS IN "STONE AGE" MURDER

Here are some new pictures of the principals in the terrible "Stone Age" murder in Los Angeles, where Mrs. Clara Phillips (lower right hand corner) is under arrest on the charge of having beaten to death, with a hammer, Mrs. Albert Meadows (with telephone), a widow, employed as a bank clerk. Mrs. Phillips was insanely jealous of her husband, A. L. Phillips (upper right-hand corner), who, she charged, Mrs. Meadows tried to lure from her. Mrs. Peggy Caffey, who was with Mrs. Phillips at the time of the murder, is seen in the upper left-hand corner showing officers how the brutal murder was committed. She did not mention the crime until Phillips threatened to kill her too.

A chameleon's skull is the most valuable specific against the manifold evil spirits which roam the air searching for easy game, and in most villages you will see a mule's skull clamped to a house top or on a palm tree.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Bringing up Spoiled Children

SPOILED CHILDREN are all right," says Mr. Lincoln Steffens.

"What we need in America is not fewer spoiled children, but more."

"The children of Russia today are without fear—they are audacious, saucy, spoiled, and they are not nice."

"But they are brave children and they will be brave men."

"I say to you mothers, bring up spoiled children."

Really, now, Mr. Steffens, how can you?

And here we Americans were just beginning to realize what nuisances so many of us let our children become—and we've made up our minds to reform and bring up nice, well-mannered, obedient creatures, who speak when they're spoken to—and are keen and not heard, like the English children—and you must come and throw a bomb right into the midst of the family and try to spoil everything.

I do hope all judicious parents got hold of the paper that reported your speech—and got rid of it before the children came home from school.

Bring up spoiled children, indeed. For goodness sake, isn't somebody going to step in somewhere and spoil the parents just a little—for a change?

The average American is a slave to his wife and children.

And the average American woman may be a queen and a tyrant—every foreigner says she is—but that's only in regard to her husband and her friends, and her parents and a few insignificant hangers-on at the trail of her beauty.

When it comes to her children, the average American mother is not only a slave, but a galley slave, at that, and she works at the profession twenty-eight hours out of the twenty-four.

And that's all very nice—for Mama and for Baby. And Papa doesn't seem to mind very much, either. But oh, misery—the rest of us!

What agonies we do suffer, what hideous blasphemies we smother in our hearts—what bitter hatreds we force ourselves to control—all on account of the spoiled children whose mothers have taught them that nothing is important in the world but what Baby wants and Baby must have, right now, this minute, no matter who has to go without—for Baby to get it.

And when Baby grows up to be seventeen or eighteen—hail to the tyrant, crowned with roses and wreathed with garlands of violets!

pair of satin slippers does not exist in the brain of the cartoonist alone. And the father who wears a shabby coat and smokes a pipe when he very much prefers cigars, so that he can send Son to the university—who of us does not know and love him?

Some day, Son will realize what his father has done for him and some day, Daughter will awaken to the sacrifice and devotion of her mother—and love her with a very passion of gratitude. But in the meantime, oh, please, good Mr. Steffens, do not put a rod pickled in brine into the hands of these, our tyrants, and bid us bow our backs to the scourge! Spoiled children—poor things, I'm always so sorry for them.

Everyone loves a natural, wholesome, joyous child.

Nobody Likes Them

It's like a star in the sky—it's like the splash of a fountain on a sultry day—it's like the breeze from the mountains entering a sickroom—the very thought of a real child.

It wasn't for the children, and the beauty and the hope, and the faith and the love they bring into this tired old world, life wouldn't be worth living for one single, miserable minute.

But spoiled children—they are like a disappointment in love. You can't look at them without thinking what might have been.

Nobody likes them, nobody can bear to see them, nobody wants them around at all.

And some day they will have to unlearn in a bitter school, everything they have ever learned about "living their own lives" and following their own whims. And how they will suffer while they are learning!

The cruellest mother in the world is the mother who lets her child have his own way—some day that child will meet a will stronger than his and if he dashes himself to pieces on it, it will be, not his fault, but the fault of the mother who spoiled him.

You might as well throw a baby naked into the street, with nothing but his little dimpled hand between him and starvation, as to throw him into life with the idea that all he has to do to get what he wants in this world is to want it, and make himself disagreeable until he gets it.

That theory is excellent—as a theory.

In fact, however, sometimes, somebody else wants something quite different and can be three times as disagreeable about it.

Do have a heart, Mr. Steffens—like a good man—do!

Don't you see us groveling at your feet, in abject terror?

Don't teach the new generation to bring up spoiled children.

Some of the present generation may have to live with them.

That May Be the Reason

By Cliff Sterrett

"Regatta" is Venetian. A contest between boats, whether canoes, sailing or motor boats, is called "regatta." This word was borrowed from the Italians, who used it in connection with the boating contests on the Grand canal in Venice. The same word, however, meant to haggle over prices. The first "regatta" to be held in England took place on the Thames on June 23, 1775; but of course this wasn't by any means the first boat race held in England.
